

Edinburgh, Friday, January 24, 1729.

From the London Evening Post, Jan. 16.

Malta, Dec. 17.

A Privateer of Leghorn has brought into this Port two Turkish Saicks richly laden, with 150 Slaves, among whom are some Turks of Distinction. Two of our Fregates are on the Point of putting to Sea, to cruize upon the Tripolins. We have a current Report that our Naval Forces are to join those of France, to go on some Military Expedition on the Coast of Barbary, on Condition that the Conquests they shall make, be delivered into the Possession of the Knights of St. John, to be kept by them.

Dantzick, Dec. 28. On the 24th of this Month the Duke of Mecklenburg received a Courier from Vienna, dispatched by M. Schrolenborg, his Minister at the Imperial Court, who, 'tis assured, had sent Advice to his most Serene Highness, that a Secretary of the Aulick Council, had by the Emperor's Order given him to understand, that for the future no Minister of that Prince should be acknowledged as such, either at Vienna or Ratisbon, and that all the Memorials which his most Serene Highness should cause to be presented to the Colleges of the Empire, should be immediately sent back, because the Regency of the Dutchy of Mecklenburg, was actually conferred on his Brother the Prince Christian Lewis, as Lawful Successor to the said Dutchy, and conformably to the Decrees of his Imperial Majesty and the Aulick Council; and adding, the several Mandates that had been published in the Name and by the Appointment of the Duke Charles Leopold, containing Expressions disrespectful, and in some Measure injurious to the Emperor, and to the Dignity of several States of the Empire, had justly drawn upon him his Imperial Majesty's highest Resentment. The Duke of Mecklenburg, after having conferred two Days together, on the Subject of these Dispatches, with his two Counsellors and his private Secretary, dispatched Yesterday two Couriers, one for Vienna, the other for Domitz: This last is to go to Berlin, to execute a Commission at the Court of Prussia.

We have received Advice from Warsaw, that the Primate of the Kingdom had received Orders from the King, to Summon the Grandees of Poland and Lichuania, to meet at Warsaw in the Month of February next, in order to hold there a Council of Senators, and to take there the necessary Measures for the holding of the General Diet.

The Letters from Courland import, That the Russian Troops in that Dutchy had received Orders to be ready to pass in Review at the first Command.

From the St. James's Evening-Post, Jan. 16.

London, Jan. 16. On Monday-Night last, Dr. Turner was attacked by Three Foot-pads, near the Stone's End, coming from Newington Buts. The one presented a Pistol at his Coachman, a second at his Footman, whilst the 3d came to the Chariot-door and risked the Doctor of his Gold and 6 Guineas, and some Silver. After which, they wished him well home, and said, that having finished their Collection for the Day, they would go drink his Health.

These same Rogues were afterwards dogged into a Gun-shop in St. George's Fields; but being assembled in a great Body, and having all Clubs, and Fire-Arms, those who followed durst not attack them.

THE Book mentioned in our last, is exceedingly admired, and looked upon as a very sensible one for silencing the Clamours that have been raised, and showing by the Orders therein produced, the Falshy and Injustice of the Charges which have been brought against the Government by some late Writers, particularly as if the Depredations committed by the Spaniards upon our Merchants in the West Indies, might have been prevented by the Commanders of his Majesty's Squadron in those Seas, if they had not been restrained by strict, particular, and explicate Instructions. The Author, towards the Conclusion says, That this Nation never acted a Part more suitably to its Dignity and Character, than it has under the Influence of the late King and his present Majesty; That the Effects which our Squadron produced in the North, will be remembered to our Honour throughout all Europe; and the Stopping the Galleons, till Spain ratified and signed the Preliminaries, and sent Orders to the West Indies for putting them in Execution, was a great, and must be confessed was a most reasonable Demonstration of our Naval Force. To the firmness and Fidelity of our Allies, and to these Measures, we owe the present Tranquillity, and the great Progress which, in a few Months after the Opening of the Congress, has been made to the establishing a Peace throughout Europe. As to Spain's delaying to return her Answer upon the Project of a Peace, he believes no one could have justified the this Account; especially considering the Season of the Year very unfit for Action; and that a very short Forbearance might have enabled his Majesty to have taken the Advice of the Parliament, upon an Affair of such Importance to his People.

And 'tis feared the Sailors who got into the Ship's Longboat, met with the same Fate, not having been heard of since.
